

Join us for an interactive workshop!

Fitting It All In

Balancing the literacy needs of our students with the schedules and structures we have

How do we fit it all in? In this interactive workshop, Maggie Beattie Roberts will help teachers tackle this question. From making the “right” choices to working with the limited time we have in the day, Maggie will offer practical support, schedules and resources to help each participant see a possibility of balance for their specific situation. Participants can expect to learn different ways to match methods of teaching with the needs of students, make strategic choices of balancing whole-class teaching and small group teaching, and get the most traction with each child’s learning.

Come prepared to think big picture—What are different ways to organize my flow of the week within reading or writing workshop?—and tackle the details—What system can I set up for students to practice the work of our small group lesson? This workshop is designed to balance both content and time to work, giving participants time to process, plan and make materials to bring into their classrooms the next day!

May 7, 2020
8:30 am — 3:30 pm

EdAdvance • 355 Goshen Road, Litchfield, CT 06759

Registration Fee: $199

Register online: www.edadvance.org/registration

For registration questions, contact Joyce DeAngelo at deangelo@edadvance.org

About Maggie — Maggie Beattie Roberts began her teaching career in the heart of Chicago and then pursued graduate studies as a Literacy Specialist at Teachers College, Columbia University. She worked as a lead staff developer for the Teachers College Reading and Writing Project for nearly ten years, where she led research and development in digital and media literacy, as well as differentiated methods of teaching. Maggie is currently a national literacy consultant, author and frequent presenter at state and national conferences. Her favorite role is staff developer, guest teaching alongside teachers in their classrooms. She is co-author of the popular book, DIY Literacy: Teaching Tools for Differentiation, Rigor, and Independence (with Kate Roberts), and authored several Heinemann TCRWP Unit of Study books on the teaching of writing. You can learn more about Maggie’s work, at kateandmaggie.com.